

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

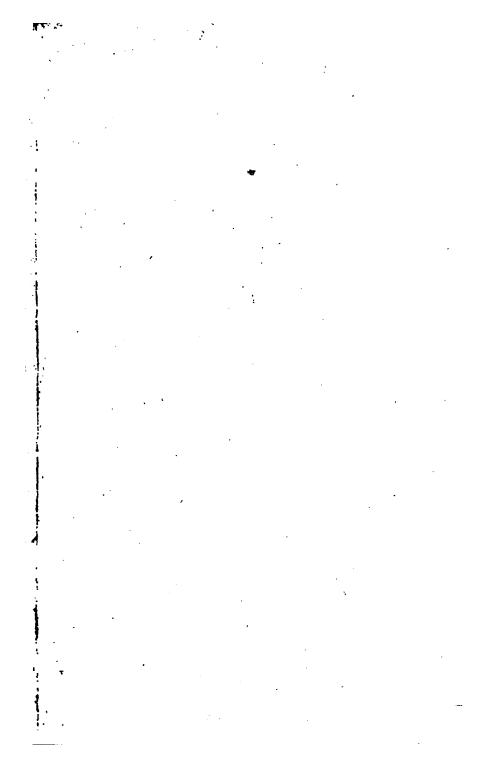

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

S the Public is ever favourable to Works of this Nature, I shall make no Apology for the present Undertaking. But to satisfy my Readers what Pains

I have been at not to impose upon them, and what Opportunities I have had of being informed, I beg leave to present them with a short Account of the following Sheets.

The Abstract of the Moghol History is extracted from the 6th Vol. of Tarîkh Rozit al Suffa, Vakeât Babri, Maçir Jehanguîry, Padshanama, and Tarîkh Alumguîri, &c. A particular Account of which will be found in the Catalogue of Manuscripts at the End of the Book. As I have so large and choice a Collection iv The PREFACE.

Collection of Eaftern Histories for that Purjoy, the Authenticness of it will not be disputed.

As to that Part which gives an Account of the State of Affairs in the Moghol Empire before the Persian Invation, with the Springs that effected the fame, I have translated it from a Persian Manuscript fent to Dr. Mead, by Humfries Cole Esq; Chief of the English Factory at Patna in the East-Indies. That the Facts therein are true, I am well assured; having myself lived in India above Ten Years, the last Three of which, I held a constant Correspondence with some Persians and Moghols there, and that frequently on the Subject of Nadir Shah's Expedition.

The Account of Nadir Shah's first Exploits, I have been favoured with from a Gentleman now in England, avbo refided several Years in Persia, speaks that Language, and has been, frequently in Company with that Conqueror.

The Journal of kis Transactions in India, with the Letters and Ceffion of the Provinces, were transmitted from Dehli, by the Secretary of Sirbullind Khan (whom Nadir Shah had appointed to be one of the Commissioners for levying the Contributions) to Mirza Moghol, hol, Son to Ali Mahommed Khan at Ahmedabad, who being my intimate Friend, gave it to me.

I have been as full in the Notes as possible, and explained whatever Terms I thought required it: Several proper Names and Words I have expressed in the Original Characters, which I thought would be entertaining to those who know any Thing of the Arabic or Persic, and not disagreeable even to those who do not, as they are immediately after set down in Roman Characters, with a proper Explanation. As several of those Terms have occurred more than once, I have annexed an Index of them, referring to the Page in which they are particularly explained.

In the Abstract of the Moghol History, I have reduced the Dates of the Hegira to the Year of our Lord, but in the remaining Part I have kept the Original Dates, and put outs in the Notes.

The learned Reader will pleafe to observe, that in two or three Persic Words, I have been obliged to make use of the Letter B. instead of P. there being no such Letter in the Arabic Types, which I have been favoured with by the Society for propagating Christian Knowledge, at at the Recommendation of bis Lordship the Bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

The Oriental Manuscripts, of which I have annexed a Catalogue at the End of these Sheets, have been collected from the Year 1730 to 1740, and purchased with no small Labour and Expence, at Surat, Cambay, and Ahmedabad in the East-Indies; excepting a few which I bought at Mocha in Arabia, from some Persians who passed that Way on their Pilgrimage to Mecca.

The first Master under whom I studied the Persic, was a Parsi, (or one of the Race of the ancient Persians) now at Surat. The second was a Mullah of one of the Mosques there, whose Name is Fakhr o'din. When I was at Cambay, I studied under Shekh Mahommed Morad, a Man famous in those Parts for his Knowledge of the Mahommedan Civil and Esclesiastical Laws. During my Stay in that Place, I employed three Hours each Day with one Srî Nât Veaz, a learned Brahmin, whom I allowed a Sallary on that Account; it was by his Means I procured my Sanskerrit Manuscripts, which (I believe) is the first Collection of that Kind ever brought into Europe.

The Affhars being well fatisfied with the Uncle, defired him to continue their Chief, declaring that as they already had fufficient Experience of his Capacity and Humanity, they would not run any Rifque by fubmitting to his Nephew. Nadir Kuli being thus thrust out of his Right by the Canning of his Uncle, and being of too great a Spirit to live in a State of Subferviency among his Relations, went to Mu-(had*, a City famous for the Sepulchre of Imam Ali Reza, and there entered into the Beglerbeg's + Service, as one of the under Mafters of Ceremonies; in which Office he behaved to well, that the Prince foon gave him the Command of a Troop of Horfe. He fo well difguifed his Ambition, that, altho' determined to push his Fortune to the utmost, when a proper Opportunity should offer, he took the greatest Care to fmother whatever might give the least Jealousy or Offence to his Superiors, feeming perfectly happy in the Station he had obtained, until the Year 1720. when the Oufbeg Tartars, by Surprife, entered Khorafan with a Body of 12000 Horfe, and began to commit Hoftilities. The Beglerbeg not having above 4000 Horfe, and 2000 Foot in Readiness to march against them, called a Council of his Officers, and told them if an immediate Stop was not put to the Progress of the Tartars, they would lay wafte and plunder the whole Province, and, according to their Cuftom, carry off Man, Woman, and Child, with ever Thing of Value they could lay their Hinds Ton :

on; in Confequence of which he must lofe his Head. The General Officers declared the Force his Highness could then muster was not near fufficient to encounter the Enemy with any Probability of Success, and that the King would blame him should he attempt it, and thereby only throw away the Lives of fo many brave Men. The Beglerbeg perceiving their timorous Difpofition, declared he would put himfelf at the Head of what Troops he had, and try his Fortune, it being better to run any Hazard than fit down tamely, and be idle Spectators, while the Tartars ravaged the Country, and carried away the Inhabitants to a perpetual Slavery. Nadir Kuli, who was prefent at this Council, (but whofe Station did not entitle him to fpeak until the Opinion of those of the fame Rank was asked) got up, and defired that he might be indulged to offer fomething on this Occasion: Which being granted, he faid, It was then no Time to deliberate; that the Enemy were advancing towards them, and in a few Days would force the Generals to do what what at prefent they feem'd to have no Inclination to; that he could not enough commend the brave Refolution L 2

tion of the Prince in offering to go in Perfon, and give them Battle, tho', at the fame, Time, there was no Necessity for His Highnefs to run fo great a Rifque, fince if any Accident happened to him the whole Province would be loft; that it would be more advisable to remain in the City Mulhad to take Care thereof with what Forces he could gather from the adjacent Parts, and let the Army fet out immediately, in order to give the Enemy Battle, or to fecure fome Defiles and narrow Paffes to prevent the Tartars advancing until his Highness could fend Succours: That for his Part, he affured him he was, by Experience, fo well fatisfied of the Bravery of the Troops they then had, that if he would honour him with the Command of this Expedition, he was fo well affured of Success, that in Case he miscarried he was willing to forfeit his Head. The Prince was fo pleafed with an Offer of this Kind, that he did not wait for any of the Generals Opinions; but immediately told him, You have, in your prefent Station, when Occasion offered, given fuch Proofs of your Conduct and perfonal Valour, as leaves me no Room to doubt of your future Behaviour therefore therefore give you the Title of General, with the Command of all the Troops now here. and order you to march with them, as foon as possible, against the Tartars, and either give them Battle, or take fuch Measures as may feem to you most proper, in order to put a Check to their Progress. Accordingly a Commission pro tempore was prepared and figned for Nadir Kuli to command in this Expedition as General, and the Prince affured him, if he fucceeded, he would use all his Interest at Court to get him confirmed. Altho? the Common-Soldiers were well Gatisfied to have Nadir Kuli to command them, yet all the General Officers, and most of the Mim Bafhis, his Seniors, refused to act under him, which the Prince being informed of, defired they would ftay with him, and that others, whom Nadir Kuli appointed, should act in their Stead. Accordingly feveral Officers were promoted in order to fupply the Places of those who staid; and the Troops fet out with Nadir Kuli at their Head, with the fame Refolution that he did, to conquer or die. The Tartar General, who lay about four Days Journey from Mulhad, bearing the Perfians were in queft of them, called called together all his Forces, who were out a marrauding in different Parts. Nadir, who bent his March directly towards him, on his Arrival, found the Tartar at the Head of his Troops ready to give him Battle; upon which he drew up his little Army on an Eminence, and told them, that half the Tartars at least were a foraging, and left to guard the Captives and Plunder; that he was affured they had not above 6 or 7000 Men, tho they were drawn up loofe in order to make the greater Show; and that he should not doubt of Victory had they been twice as numerous, from the Experience he often had of their Courage on other Occasions, which he was affured they would then exert to the utmost, as thereon entirely depended the Lives, Liberties, and Effates of their Coun-The Tartars charged with their trymen. usual Fury, which the Perfians, animated by the Example of their young Leader, fustained with all the Intrepidity imaginable. Both Parties being brave and equally refolute, a bloody and obstinate Action enfued, in which the Victory for a long Time feemed doubtful: At last Nadir's Fortune prevailed; for having flain the General with his own Hand the the Tartars were immediately put to Flight, the Perfans purfuing and flaughtering them for feveral Miles. In this Battle upwards of 6000 Tartars were killed, and of the Remainder not half returned to their own Country, being either killed or taken Prifoners by the Peafants.

This Victory gained Nadir Kuli immortal Honour; and the Beglerbeg affured him, on his Arrival at Mulbad, that he had wrote to the King to make him General under him, that is, Lieutenant General of Kborafan. But Shah Sultan Hoffein, who was then King of Persia, being a weak and indolent Prince, never regarded the Services Nadir had done him, but appointed in that very Poft, which he ought to have, a young Nobleman who had never feen any Action. This Affair was managed by the great Interest the other General Officers had at Court, who (tho' afraid to undertake it themfelves) were highly chagrin'd at Nadir Kuli's having had the Command of the Tartar Expedition: The King's Weakness giving them a fair Opportunity of indulging their Refentment, by procuring the Difgrace of this brave Man, who had no Friends at Court to follicit for him. Being

Being highly incenfed at this Treatment. he waited on the Prince, and told him, he had depended on his Promife to no Purpole, for instead of being confirmed in his Post, he was degraded and difgraced for his good Services, and a young Fellow appointed to Command the Army, who was only fit to be that up in a Seroglio with Women; that he observed, he was a Person nearly related to his Highness, whence he concluded he was raifed to that Station by the very Interest promised him, The Prince affured him of the contrary, and as he had endeavoured to ferve him, was highly difpleafed at his daring to tax him with a Breach of Promife. Nadir, by infifting on what he had faid, and dropping fome other unguarded Expreffions, fo far trefpaffed on the Prince's good Nature, that he ordered him to be bastinadoed on the Soles of the Feet, till his Toe-Nails dropt off, and turned him out of the Service. The Reader must not be furprized at this Sort of Punishment to a Field Officer, for it is frequently inflicted on those in the highest Stations, if they incur the King's Displeasure, and all the Nobility are liable to undergo it, if they difobey the Commands of

of their Superiors in a Post subordinate to them. Nadir was now fet adrift, and having no Friends at Court, had no Hopes of being re-inflated; this made him turn his Thoughts on retiring to the Place of his Nativity, and endeavour to recover his paternal Inheritance. On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly, and he lived with him and his other Relations fome Time ; but on his endeavouring to recover the Command of the Tribe, by first infinuating privately, and then infifting upon it that it was his Right, his Uncle let him know he would not refign it, and treated him in a most contemptuous and flighting Manner. His other Relations did the fame, which was Ufage Nadir's high Spirit could not bear, notwithstanding the State of Poverty he was reduced to, which was to very hard; that he was forced to borrow small Matters of any that would lend him, to procure the common Necessaries of Life. This was enough to beget desperate Refolutions in a Man who had deferved great Things from his Prince and Country, for the good Services he had done them; inflead of which, as I have already observed, he was degraded and punished : And when he fled into the M

the Arms of his Relations for Relief, and claim'd his Birth-right, found that withheld from him by his Uncle; and all those who, by Ties of Blood, ought to have been his Friends, turned his Enemies, for no other Reafon that I could ever learn, but that they found him a bold enterprifing Man, and fuperior to themfelves in Point of Genius and every other Respect. Nadir, in this melancholy Situation, determined to get that by Force, which he could not obtain by any other Method; and having affociated with a Couple of flout Fellows of defperate Fortune, went upon the Highway, and robb'd a finall Caravan of Three or Four Mules laden with Merchandize, and found Means to difpose of them, the Produce of which (fetting afide what they wanted for prefent Expences) he laid out in Arms and Ammunition, and enlifted privately in his Gang all the defperate Fellows he could pick up. He fet out a fecond Time with about 20 or 25, and robb'd a large Caravan of 30 Mules and Camels, laden with Merchandize and Provisions, which he carried to the Mountains, where Perfons came fecretly to him with Arms, &c. and exchanged them for Goods, much to their Advantage.

Advantage. In this Manner he frequently robb'd, traded, and enlifted fresh Men into his Gang, most of whom were Soldiers who had formerly ferved under him, until he had got near 500 front Fellows well mounted, with which Force he kept the Country in aw, and laid them under a Contribution, which they would not comply with, till he had first threatned, and afterwards performed his Refolution of carrying away their Cattle, and plundering and burning their Houfes. But it will be proper here to take Notice, that the could not have reigned long in this Manner, but would have been purfued and overpowered by the King's Forces, if the Empire had not been involved in War. The Afghans, under Mir Vaez's Son, had taken Isfaban, and reduced the South-East Parts of Perfia to their Obedience; the Turks had entered the Weftern Parts, and taken most of them; and the Muscovites had taken Poffeffion of Gilan (the ancient Hyrcania) and other Places bordering on the Cafpian Sea; to that Shab Thamas having but two or three Provinces left, which were furrounded by Enemies on all Sides, he could not fpare any Forces to reduce Nadir Kuli; the Country M 2

Country People were afraid to attack him: to that he lived on them, and exacted what he thought proper for the Support, of highlight and his Followers. At this Time, one Set o'din Beg, a General in Shah Thamas's Army, and Chief of a great Tribe, called the Bayots, having offended the King, his Perface Majesty was determined to take away his Life, which Sef o'din Beg being privately informed of, he fled from the Camp in the Night with 1500 of his own Mep, and not knowing where to take Sanctuary, he went to Nadir Kuli, and joined him. By this Addition to his Force, he had now got upwards of 2000 Men, and was become very formidable and expensive to the Neighbourhood. Nadir's Uncle began to dread the Strength of his Nephew, who not being above 100 Miles off, might come and attack him whenever he pleafed : He therefore wrote him a Letter, wherein he affured him, he was of Opinion, that if he would fubmit, and go into the King's Service, his Majesty would grant a Pardon to him and all his People. Nadir. feemed very well pleafed with this Proposal and wrote his Uncle, that if he could procure the Pardon he mentioned, he should be glad to

to accept of it. Accordingly his Uncle fent a Petition to Shah Thumas, in behalf of his Nephew. His Majefty at first feemed not inclined to pardon a Man who had been guilty of fuch notorious Crimes; but being told the ill Treatment he had formerly met with, forced him to take fuch Measures in order to support himself, that he was a gallant Officer, and that his Troops might be of great Service, to his Majefty, who was in want of fuch Men. the King comply'd, and fent a free Pardon figured to his Uncle, which he immediately forwarded to Nadir Kuli, who, upon the Receipt thereof, let out with Sef o'din Beg, and 100 chosen Men for Calor. On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly. Next Day he made a grand Entertainment for him and his Followers, which he intended to have continued for three Days, far from appreliending any Treachery from his Nethew, who now meditated Revenge for the Injury done him in withholding his Right, and flighting him when reduced to the greatest Necessity. He had concerted with his Followers how to put it in Execution before he left the Mountains, and had ordered 500 more of his Men to fet out the next Day af-: } ter him, and to lay concealed near the Caftle of Calot (which they might eafily do, it being a mountainous Place.) Accordingly having that very Night made proper Preparations, about two in the Morning, at a Signal given, those within fell on the Sentries, killed fome, and feized the reft, whilft Nadir Kuli went to his Uncle's Chamber, whom having killed, he took the Keys of the Caftle, and opened the Gates, in order to let in the 500 Men, who were ready at his Signal. His Uncle's Men, who were about 160, belides the Sentries, had taken the Alarm; but Nadir's People having fecured the Doors of the Barracks where they lay, they could make no Refiftance, fo that they furrendered; and, being difarm'd, were fet at Liberty the next Morning: there was not much Blood shed on this Occasion, not above fifteen or twenty being killed in all. Nadir immediately' dispatched Messengers to those remaining in the Mountains, who came to him in a few Days. This happened about the Year 1726-7, upwards of fix Years after he had been turned out of the King's Service in Ma/had, as before-mentioned.

Nadir, by this Action, not at all to his Credit, had gratified his Revenge on his Uncle, 1

Uncle, and had all his Relations (who lived mostly in the Town, and the adjacent Villages near Calot) in his Power; but he thewed no Refertment to any of them: On the contrary, he treated them with Civility and Respect ; several of them entered voluntarily into his Service, and are now with him in great Posts. He continued in this Place for fome Months ruling in an abfolute Manner, and raising Contributions, for fifty Miles round, to what Amount he pleafed. Sbab Thamas was fully apprized of all that Nadir had done, and was highly displeased at the ill Use he made of the Pardon fent him. which was to deftroy his Uncle, and get Poffeffion of a ftrong Place, whence nothing but a great Force could diflodge him; but as his Affairs were in a declining Condition, every Day feeming to threaten his Ruin more and more, being hemm'd in by the Turks on one Side, and the Afghans on the other, he judged it better to make use of the Rebel Nag dir's Aflistance, than to weaken his own Force by attempting to deftroy him. He therefore let him know, if he would fubmit and come to him, he should be graciously received, and admitted into the Service as a Mîm

Mim Bashi, and that Sef o'din Beg should likewife be pardoned, and entertained in the fame Station. Nadir accepted this Offer, and having left one of his own Officers, with 500 of his Men, to command the Castle, he fet out with the reft, and waited on the King, who at first rebuked him for what he had done, but told him and his People, that he had forgiven them, and did not doubt but their future Behaviour would make Amends for their past Offences. Nadir excused himfelf as well as he could, by telling the King the ill Treatment he had met with from the Prince of Kborafan, in being turned out of the Service at a Time when he ought to have been rewarded for his fuccessful Expedition against the Tartars; and that the injurious Ufage he received from his Uncle and Relations had forced him into the Measures he had taken to support himself; but as his Majesty had now generoufly pardoned him, he thould endeavour to render himfelf deferving of the Clemency which had been shewn him.

As he had now frequent Occasions, he signalized himself by his Courage and Conduct, and was the Admiration of the King and the whole Army. The Turks (who before Nadir dir Kuli's coming into Shah Thamas's Army, were always victorions, and feem'd determined to extirpate the Perfran Race, and divide the Empire between the Afgbans and themselves, with whom they had made Peace, and entered into an Alliance) were now frequently repulsed with Lofs, the' their Numbers were vafily superior to the Perfians; and in all those Actions and Skirmishes, Nadir, the' he had but an inferior Command, yet he thared the most Honour ; till at length the King made him a Lieutenant-General, having removed two of his principal Officers to make Way for him. As Nadir had, by his Station, frequent Opportunities of waiting on the King, he foon infinuated himfelf into his Payour. He had but one Rival to deal with, who was of any Confequence, namely, Fatteb allab Khan Kajar, with whom, in Appearance, he kept a strict Friendship; but the very Moment the King (being fet on by his Creatures) had called that General to an Account for his Management, in Regard to the Army, Nadir Kuli affured His Majesty he had been a long Time sensible of the Abuses committed, and unless there was a Reformation in the Manner of paying N and and disciplining the Army, the Troops would defert; that they already began to murmur at not receiving their Pay regularly, and complained of the exorbitant Deductions made out of it for Cloaths, &c. The King, on hearing this, was highly incenfed against the General, and declared, if what was alledged against him was true, he would order his Head to be cut off. He having nothing to fay in his own Justification, but pleading it as a Cuftom, and what his Predeceffors had always done, His Majesty ordered him to be executed on the Spot, and appointed Nadir Kuli General, who readily accepted of ir without the Formality of defiring to be excufed on Account of his Inability, to acquit himfelf as he ought in fuch a Post. This was in the Year 1727-8, and not above one Year fince he was pardoned, and taken into the King's Service. Nadir having obtained that high Station, began to difplay Talents vaftly fuperior to what he had discovered hitherto, and the King had fo great a Dependance on his Management, that he 'feldom or never interfered in any Thing relating to the Military. Nadir, being fenfible of the Trust reposed in him, was refolved to improve prove it to his own Advantage, by removing those in the Army whom he had Reason to believe were not attached to him, and putting in those who were. He gain'd the Affection of the Common-Soldiers, by paying them with his own Hand the Moment he received the Money, and letting them have Cloaths at the first Cost. Finding himself in this happy Situation, he wish'd for nothing more than Action, but his Forces (being no more than 15 of 20000) were not fufficient to act offensively against the Turks : However, he annoyed them to much by Means of flying Parties, that they were glad to fit Itill in their Quarters; they fent to acquaint Shah Thamas, that if he would relinquish to them the Right of those Places they had already in Pofferfion, they would make Peace with him, and leave him to recover the reft of his Dominions from the Afghans. Shah Thamas let them know he would confider of it, and defired a Truce till he could get an Anfwer from the Grand Signior to fome Proposals he had to make him; to which the Turks agreed, promifing to commit no Hostilities until they received Orders from the Port, and fo their Confines were were fixed to Hamadan on one Side, and Tabriz and Ardebil on the other, Shab Thamas fent a Mellenger to Configntingely with Offers of an Accommodation, but on Terms which he knew would not be granted, he gave private Orders to the faid Massenger to pretend Sickness on the Road, and to delay his getting thither as foon as possible, to as not to give the Turks any Caule of Sufpicion. Shab Thamas's Defign was only to gain Time that he might go and subdue Meluck Mahmud, Governor of Mulbad, who had rebelled dur+ ing the late Revolution, and fet up as King, Having, thro' the Bravery of his General Nadir, taken the faid Governor Prifoner, and feized his Effects, he fet out with 12009 Horse to chastise the Abdollees, a Tribe of Afgbans, who had taken Possession of Herat in Shab Sultan Hoffein's Time, and were now preparing a grand Army to invade Kborafan, and lay Seige to Mushad. The Abdollee Afghans met him about three Days Journey from Herat, with an Army of near 30000 Horfe, As they were reckoned better Soldiers than the Kandabar Afghans, who had taken Isfaban, the King feem'd to dread the Event of the Battle; but Nadir, whole Courage way invincible.

faviacible, affured the King he did not doubt of Success; that Victory depended more on Relolution and Oonduct than on Numbers, and that he was fatisfy'd his Majelty's Troops had both. Having drawn up his Army in order of Battle, he harangued them in the fame Manner, telling them withal, that the Loss of that Battle would be the Ruin of Perfis, and that they and their Generations would be made Slaves for ever, if they did not conquer that Day; after which a general Shout was given. The Abdollee Afghans, who were drawn up at some Diftance, hearing their Shout, returned it, and advanced with great Fury to charge the Perfans. Nadir kept his Men close, and being polled upon a rifing Ground, he played upon them with forme finall Field-pieces, which did great Execution, not inffering any of his People to discharge their Small-Arms until the Enemy was within thirty or forty Yards, when they made a general Fire, which made fuch Hawock among the Abdollees, that they were obliged to retire, and give the Perfians Time to load again. In short, after several desperate Attacks, which the Perfians sustained with an uncommon Valour, a general Engagement gagement enfued, in which Nadir behaved with a most surprising Conducts for, the his Personal Bravery naturally carried him too far, his Vigilance was fuch, that he always fent timely Affistance wherever it was required; at last, the Abdollees were entirely routed, 5000 were taken Prifonere, and near 15000 killed and wounded. The Lois on the Perfians Side amounted to no more than 1500. After this he marched to Herst, and belieged it for fome Months, antil the Enemy fubmitted, and had agreed to pay down a certain Sum, and give an annual Tribute on Condition they might have a Governor appointed by the King out of their own Tribe; which being granted, they fwore Obedience to Shah Thamas, by whom they were to be treated in future as natural Subjects. The King, who was in the Army, but did not command, fet out for Mulbad. Nadir Kuli, having Orders to follow him as foon as possible, arrived there in August. 1720. About this Time the King received News that Ashruff, the Afghan (who fucceded Mabmud, the Son of Mir Vaez, and was then in Possession of Isfaban) was preparing to come and attack him with a powerful Army,

Army. The faid Ashruff, hearing of Nadir Kuli's Succefs, thought it dangerous to give fuch a Man Time to augment his Forces; he therefore determined to crush him in the Beginning : For which Purpofe, having compleated an Army of 30000 Men, he fet out from Isfabon in September, 1729, and march'd towards Khota fan. This News alarmed Shah Thamas, and likewife his General Nadir; but his Troops, being flush'd with their late .Victory, feem'd eager to be led against the Enemy. He was glad to find them in this Disposition, especially as he had but little Hopes of railing any great ' Number of Recruits, few People caring to enlift, as they knew they were immediately to enter upon a desperate Action ; however, he augmented his Army to near 16000 Men exclusive of the Troops left in Garrison: Having fet out from Mulbad, by flow Marches he came to a Place called Damgoon, where, pofting himfelf advantageoufly, he waited the Enemy's Arrival. When Albruff came there, finding Nadir Kuli fo well fituated, he was unwilling to attack him, but was over-ruled in Opinion by his Officers: They told him, that by his declining to come to Action, the ÷ •. Enemy would obtain a cheap Victory; as the Country People (on hearing the Afghans were afraid to encounter the Perfans) would rebel, and ftop all Provisions from coming to the Army. Afbraff then proposed to march directly to Mushad without attacked Nadär Kuli; which being rejected, the Signal was given for Battle. The Event convinced the Afghan Officers of their Error; for attacking them at that Disadvantage gave the Perfans a compleat Victory. 'Tis true it oast them dear, having lost above 4000 Men. The Loss fulfained by the Afghans was about 12000, among whom were some of their best Officers.

After this Defeat Afkruff setired towards Isfahan, having scarcely a third Part of the Troops he fet out with, a great Number of his Men (especially the Persianis he had taken into his Service) having deferted after the Battle.

Shab Thamas, who was prefent in this Action, and an Eye-witnels to the Conduct and Valour of his General, told him he had nothing to prefent him, worthy his Acceptance, but his own Name, and ordered that, for the future, he should be called Thamas Kult

he marched out to a Place called Mourche Kbor, which is about thirty English Miles from the City, and encamped there, waiting Khali Khan's Arrival, which not being to foor as he expected, he had fufficient Time to exercife his Cruelty on the Performs in and about Isfaban : At first, he ordered all the principal Men to be cut off, and afterwards all they could find in the Streets; fo that, for the Space of twenty Days, there was not a Persian to be seen abroad, none appearing But Women; who came out to buy the common Necessaries of Life. At last. Kuli Roomarrived at Mourcha Kbor, whice, engaging the Afghans, 'he obtained a compleat Victory. Afteruff, having loft 7000 Men, retired to Isfaban, where, calling a Council, it was refolved, that all the Inhabitants flouidbe flaughtered; and the Palace and other Houses set on Fire; which being done, they were to march off with all the Effects they could carry with them. Just as they were on the Point of executing this barbarous Refolution, those whom Asbruff had appoint-"ed to watch the Motions of Kuli Khan, fentsto acquaint him, that the Perfian Army was in full March towards the City. Upon which, Albruff

Albruff ordered his Men to come to the Palace and load their Beafts with Money (of which there was a great Quantity) and then follow him, as they could only fave themfelves by Flight. This Order was executed with formuch Dispatch, that before two o' Clock in the Afternoon there was fcarce an Afghan to be feen in the City. The Perfians, who before lay concealed, came out, and began to plunder all Houfes without Diflinction; even the Pealants from the Outparts flocked in in great Numbers to have their Share of the Booty; but on the Arrival of 1900 of Thamas Kuli Khan's Troops, all the Rabble dilappeared, and the Officers took Possession of the Palace, and placed Guards at the City Gates. The next Day being

November, 1730, he entered lifaban with his whole Army, and continued there, cloathing his Men, and dividing among them the Plunder recovered from the Inhabitants. It was a Matter of Surprize to most People that he did not pursue the Afghans; but in a few Days afterwards it appeared he had some private Reasons for it: For, on Shah Thomas's Arrival (which was three Weeks afterwards) he declared that unless his Majesty Q 2 would

At last, His Majesty confented but with the greateft Reluctancy: For, ingiving that Power, he (in Effect) parted with his Crown. He did not even ftop here, but heaped more Honours upon him, appointing him Generalistimo and Beglerbeg of Kborafan, and giving him his Aunt in Marriage. After obtaining thefe Favours he feemed perfectly zealous for his Master's Service; and, in

in order to convince the World of his Sincerity, would fet out with an Army in the Middle of Winter against the Afgbans, who, finding the Persians did not pursue them, when they quitted Isfaban, had taken up their Winter Quarters at Sbiraz, and plundered and ravaged that Part of the Country in a barbarous Manner.

Kuli Kban, thro' the Severity of the Seafon, had loft upwards of 3000 Men; but, as his March was to the Southward, the Weather grew daily more favourable. Having arrived near Shiraz, Albruff and his Afghans marched out with a Refolution once more to try their Fortune in Battle; they fought defperately for fome Hours, but at laft were put to Flight, having left a great Part of their Treasure and most of their Women and Children behind them. A strong Detachment of the Persians were sent in Pursuit of them, who made several of them Prisoners.

Albruff, with about 1500 of his Men, marched directly towards Kandabar. In the Way most of them deferted him, having only 100 when he was surprized and set upon by a Body of the Balluches; with these sew he he made a desparate and brave Defence, but being greatly overpowered, he and most of his Party were cut to Pieces.

Thamas Kuli Khan, having staid about a Month in Shiraz, fet out for Hamadan, in order to recover it, with other Places formerly belonging to the Perfum, which the Turks had feized during the late Troubles. On his Arrival there, Abdallah Bafba came against him with all his Forces, who, being worsted, fled towards Carmansbab: Thamas Kuli purfued him thither, and defeated him a second Time. Having staid a few Days at Carmansbab, and fixed a Garrison there, he let out for Tabriz. As foon as he recovered and fecured that important Place, he detached a strong Party to Ardebil, which the Enemy had quitted on their Approach. The Turks, being thus unfuccessful, demanded a Truce which Thamas Kuli granted the more readily, as the Abdollees at Herst rebelled a fecond Time, and had a powerful Army in the Field.

Having fecured, and left fufficient Garrifons in those Places he had lately recovered, he fet out for Herst. After defeating the Abdollees Army, he laid Siege to the City, which which being a Place of great Strength, held out until Famine obliged them to furrender. He put the Governor and all the principal Men to Death, and having peopled the Place with Perfians, and left a Garrifon of his own Men therein, he marched to Mufhad.

During this Fime, Shah Thamas, who was at Isfaban, finding the Furks were fending Forces from Constantinople and other Parts towards the Frontiers of Persia, he railed an Army of 20000 Men, and fet out for Tabriz, where, joining the Troops left there by Thamas Kuli, he marched to Erivan, and defeating a Body of Turks, belieged the Caffle, but not being able to supply his Army with Provisions there, he returned to Tabriz, and from thence intended to advance towards Carman /bab, but was prevented by Abmed Basha; who, coming against him with a fuperior Army, entirely defeated him. A few Days after this Battle, the Basha sent him Word, he was impowered by the Grand Signior to conclude a Peace with him. The King came readily into the Basha's Proposals, which were, that each Party should remain in Poffession of what they had then got.

When,

104 The HISTORY of

When Thamas Kuli Khan was informed of this Peace he was greatly enraged, and wrote to the King and feveral of the Nobility, acquainting them, he would foon wait on His Majesty, and convince him of the Necessity there was to break this scandalous Peace. Accordingly he fet out with all Speed from Mulhad, and in August, 1732. arrived at Bfaban with his whole Army, which amounted to upwards of 60000, all choice Troops. He waited on the King, and told him, He ought first to make an Example of those who advised him to such dishonourable Meafures, and then carry on the War with Vigour against the Enemy. The King feeming unwilling to break the Peace he had concluded with the Turks, Thamas Kuli Khan told him, he had good Reafon to believe most of the Courtiers were his Enemies, and had been endeavouring to prevail with His Majefty to take away his Life. The King affured him his Informations were not true. Upon which Kuli Khan prefented the King with a Bundle of Letters, telling him, thefe would convince his Majesty, that he had just Ground for his Apprehentions. After which he took his Leave.

Thefe

These Letters had been wrote to him privately by several of the Nobility at Court; in which they informed against each other, and acquainted him with their Designs against him. They also let him know what had passed in several Conversations with the King; at the same Time reflecting on his Majesty's Incapacity, and assuring Kuli Khan how much they had his Interest at Heart.

The King was aftonished when he perused these Letters, and finding the Treason too general to be taken any notice of, unless he resolved to cut off the greatest Part of the Nobility, he destroyed the Letters, being determined to wait for a more convenient Opportunity of resenting their Villany.

Thamas Kuli Khan, who with his Army lay encamped without the City, waited to know what Effect these Letters would have on the King; but finding he took no Notice of them, he confulted with the Chiefs of his Army, and acquainted them with the Steps he had taken. They agreed with him in Opinion, that the King's Intention was to deftroy him and his Friends, and disband the Army; and that the late shameful Peace concluded with the Turks was chiefly with a P View of having more Leifure and Opportunity to accomplifh his Defigns. Kuli Khan told them, the only Expedient to fave them and himfelf, would be to depose the King, and fet up his Son in his Stead; by which Means they should have a fair Pretence of making a Rupture with the Ottoman Porte; His Officers came readily into this Scheme, which was executed in the following manner.

Kuli Khan invited the King to a Review of the Army; he accordingly went, and was exceedingly delighted with the fine Appearance they made, and the Performance of their Exercife, the Merit of which he publickly attributed to the General. As the King was riding thro' the Ranks, fome of the Under-officers and Soldiers faid aloud, " If your " Majesty has any Commands, we are ready " to execute them." This at first furprized Kuli Khan, but on recovering himfelf, he, with his usual Prefence of Mind, addreffed the King, defiring him to tell them they were to obey their General Thamas Kuli Khan, to whom he had given the fole Command of the Army; which his Majesty complied with, and then went to a Banquet which had been prepared for him in the General's neral's Tent. The King having indulged too freely in drinking Wine, (which 'tis fuppofed was mixed with fome introxicating Drug) he fell afleep on his Sofa. The General ordered his own People to carry him to a Seraglio in the Garden of Hazar Jerib. His Majefty's Servants who were then in Waiting, feeming to difpute Kuli Khan's Orders, by telling him, they would take Care of the King, were commanded to withdraw at their Peril; upon which they endeavoured to make their Escape, but were feized by the Guards, and confined.

After Kuli Khan had fecured the King, and placed Guards over him, he returned to his Tent, where most of the General Officers, who had been prefent at this Scene, were attending. He asked them, what was to be done further with the King? They replied, Nothing more than what is already done: But he foon perfwaded them it would be neceffary to keep him confined in fome remote Part of the Empire: and accordingly three Days afterwards he was fent to Mazandran, attended by a Guard of 6000 Men, among whom were very few Perfian Troops, being P 2 chiefly chiefly Afghans, and others of the Sunni Religion.

After feizing the King, he fent a ftrong Detachment to the City, to take Poffeffion of the Palace, and place Guards at the City Gates, and in forme of the principal Streets. Early next Morning he was proclaimed by Beat of Drum, that no Perfons, on Pain of Death, fhould Air out of their Houfes: At Noon finding every Thing was quiet and eafy, a fecond Proclamation was made, ordering, all People to carry on their Bufinefs and feveral Occupations, and go abroad, as ufual.

The Perfians made fecretly great Lamentations, imagining their King was killed; but being informed he was alive, they flattered themfelves with Hopes that the Army would rife in his Defence.

Next Day after the King was fent away, Kuli Khan went to the Palace in great Pomp, attended by all the Officers both Civil and Military. He ordered the King's Son to be brought out of the Seraglio, who being then in his Cradle, was placed on the Throne; the Royal Diadem was put at the Head, and the Sword and Target fixed to the Side thereof; after after which, with the proper Ceremony, he was declared King, by the Name of Shab, Abafs the Third, Kuli Khan first swore Fidelity to him on the Koran, and the rest followed his Example.

This Mack Ceremony being over, he continued, in the Palace until he had appointed, proper Officers, in the City, and removed those Governors of distant Province whom. he did not care to confide in .: Afterwards he fet out with his Forces against the Turks, and meeting Abmed Basha at the Head of a nu. merous Army, within a few Days Journey of Bagbdad, he entirely defeated him, and marched, towards the City, which he laid close Siege to. The Garrison being very nu-. merous, defended it a long Time, but a terrible Famine raging amongst them, they were. on the Point of furrendering, when Jopal Othman, Basha Serafkier, and several other, Bashas came with an Army, which, including, Servants, Sr. was upwards of 200000 Men. Having advanced near Bagbdad, they obliged, Thamas Kuli Khan to raise the Siege, and give 'em Battle. The Perfian Army, which then confifted of 120900 Men, charged to furioufly,: and seconded their Attacks with so much Vigour, gour, that the Turks were on the Point of giving Way, when Kuli Kban's Horfe was thot under him. Having fought fome Time on Foot, before he could get re-mounted, his Standard-bearer concluded he was killed, and rode off with the Colours. This alarm'd the whole Army, who inftantly faced about and fled: Kule Kban endeavoured to rally them, but to no Purpole; the Turks purfuing with great Fury, made a terrible Slaughter of them: The Perfians loft in this Action upwards of 60000 Men, and the Turks nigh as many.

This Defeat would have discouraged any but Kuli Khan, who had a Soul Iuperior to all Misfortunes. He ftopped at Hamadan, where in a few Days most of the Troops who were dispersed joined him. He told them he had certain Intelligence the Turks had given over Pursuit, and had divided their vast Army into lesser Parties, for the Convenience of foraging and getting Provisions, of which they were in great Want: He was determin'd to go and attack 'em one Party after another, and either conquer or die, fince after what had been already done they could expect no Mercy from their Country, to which they must must never retarn but in Triumph: And should they give the Turks any Time to refresh and unite their Troops, they would certainly be an Over-match for them. His Officers being entirely of the fame Opinion, he marched back with great Expedition, and fell upon the first Party of the Turks, who, imagining him to be at a great Diftance; were not prepared to receive him. Having fucceffively beat three confiderable Bodies of them, he at last encountered Topal Othman Basha, at the Head of 60,000 Men, who being that in the Beginning of the Action, his whole Army was foon routed, and put to Flight.

Since this Battle the Turks have not appeared in the Field against him; but suffered him for two Years successively to take one Place after another, some by Storm, and others by Capitulation, till he had recovered all the Territories they had seized during the late Troubles.

This unexpected Succefs had greatly raifed his Reputation, and Volunteers came from all Quarters to offer him their Service, Having compleated a choice Army, he marched a fecond Time to befiege Bagbdad, When

112 The HISTORY of

When the Siege was pretty far advanced, he received News, that Mabommed Khan Bulluche, one of his Generals, had rebelled, and proclaimed Shab Thamas King; that he had taken the City of Shiraz, and had an Army of 30000 Men, which increased daily : Whereupon Kuli Khan immediately raifed the Siege, and marching with all Expedition against the Rebels, was upon them when they least expected him. Upon the first Report of his Troops being near, they marched out to attack them, imagining it was only a fmall Detachment under the Command of one of his Officers, but they had not advanced above 20 Miles before they met him at the Head of his Van-Guard, which confisted of 12000 Men. Mabommed Khan Balluche being overjoyed to find him attended by fo few, told his Officers, that Fortune had delivered Thamas Kuli Khan into their Hands; that they might eafily defeat him, before he could have any Succours, as his main Army was a Days Journey behind : But when they approached each other, and heard Kuli Khan thundering out his Orders, they were struck with such a Panick, that they fled, without fultaining his first Attack.

Attack. Mabommed Khan Balluche, who was perfonally brave, having fingled out Kuli Khan, rode full Speed towards him; being repulsed, he fought his Way back again, and intended to make his Escape, by croffing the Gulf of Perfia in an Arab Veffel; but those treacherous People seized him, and, in hopes of a Reward, carried him to Thamas Kuli Khan, who fent him to Prifon, in order to force him into a Confession of his Accomplices, and what Treasure and Effects In this he was disappointed, for the he had. Moment Mabommed Khan Balluche was left alone, he hanged himfelf. They could find no Papers that gave any Account of the Perfons he corresponded with, or where his Effects (which were very confiderable) had been deposited. Thus ended this brave Man, who was defervedly efteemed for feveral good Qualities; he was as great (tho' not fo fortunate) a Soldier, as any in the East, and judged to be the best Horseman in Persia.

Thamas Kuli Khan staid a few Days in Shiraz, being employed in putting to Death fome of the principal Perfons concerned in the Rebellion, and seizing their Effects. He afterwards returned to Isfahan, where settling Q fome fome Affairs, he fet out for Georgia, and took the Capital Teffis by Storm, upon which the whole Country submitted to him; from thence he marched to Erivan, the Capital of Armenia, which having recovered, he afterwards took Shamakhi by Capitulation, and Ganjan by Storm. In the mean Time, hefent a Meffenger to the Ruffians to defire them to relinquish Gilan and the Silk Countries, according to their Promise, otherwise he should be obliged to pay them a Vifit; as they had no Inclination to enter into a War with him, they evacuated all the Places on this Side the Cafpian Sea, except Derbend and Bachu, which he had given up to them. Upon this he concluded a firm Peace with them, and not long. after made a Peace with the Turks.

Having thus fettled Affairs in Regard to those two Powers, he sent a general Edict to all the Rulers of Provinces, Chiefs of Tribes, and Governors of Cities and Towns, commanding them to meet him on a certain Day in the Plains of Chuli Mogham, on Pain of high Displeasure. At the Time appointed they appeared, to the Number of 6000 and upwards, at the faid Place, where they found him encamp'd with an Army of 150000 Men.

Men. Thamas Kuli Khan ordering them to appear before him, he told them, the Reafon of calling them together was to acquaint them that he had now fubdued all the Enemies of the Perfian Empire, except the Kandabar Afghans, whom he was determined to march against very foon; that, after he had reduced them to Obedience, he intended to retire, and end the Remainder of his Days in Peace and Tranquility, unless his Country thould again require his Service; that he had made Peace with the Furks and Mulcovites. and challifed the Tartars, and other Enemics on the Frontiers, in fuch a Manner, that (in all Probability) they would remain quiet for a long Time, fo that it only remained with them to elect a King, either Shah Thamas their late Sovereign, or any other whom they judged the most capable; adding that he expected their Anfwer in three Days, After this he retired to his Tent, and gave Orders that the faid Affembly should be entertained at the public Expence, during their Stay in the Camp. In the mean Time, Kuli Khan's Creatures took Care to intimate to the principal Persons, that they ought to compliment their Regent and General with an Offer of Q 2 tial, he was of Opinion an Accommodation might be easily effected.

The Grandees came readily into the two first Articles, but as to the last they defired he would first hear what the Mullah Bafbi (or High-Prieft) had to offer on that Head before they should fubscribe to it. Accordingly the High-Prieft addreffed him, and faid, " As to Matters of Religion we have the Law of God, and the Traditions of his Pro-" phet Mahommed to direct its, it is not for ' Princes to make Innovations therein ; and Stherefore Lhumbly hope your Majefty will 'not begin your Reign with attempting to overthrow the Effablished Religion, as a Step of that Nature must be attended with dangerous Confequences, Then Kuli Khan immediately ordered him to be ftrangled, to prevent the People from attempting to fecond his Discourse, which they would certainly have done, if this fudden Execution has not detered them from it. He then afked the People whether they would fubfcribe, and take Oaths to what he had proposed ; which they tamely and readily fubmitted to: ... He told them, that by Experience it was evident their Prayers had not been heard, fince for. fifty Years past the Nation has been on the Decline, and at last almost ruined by Invafions and Rebellions, until God's victorious Instruments (meaning his Army) had come to its Relief, who were now ready to facrifice their Lives for the Defence and Glory thereof; that these poor Priests (pointing to his Soldiers) were in Want, and must be fupply'd by fome Means or other; that therefore it was his Royal Pleafure, that the greatest Part of the Church Lands and Revenues should

The Priests were highly enraged at this Treatment, and did all they could to flir up the Army and People against him; the former, being above half Sunnis, only laughed at them; and the latter, when they confidered that by this they were to be eafed of a Part of the Taxes. were not diffatisfy'd with it. After this, he marched with his Army to Isfahan, where he continued fome Time, making Preparations for his Expedition to Kandabar. During his Stay there, he received the Compliments of the neighbouring Powers: The Grand Signior and Mogbol acknowledged him as Emperor of Perfia, and at the fame time congratulated him on having eftablifhed the true Orthodox Religion in his Empire, and difcouraged the former Herefy.

In December, 1736, Nadir Shab fet out from Isfahan, with an Army of upwards of 80000, chiefly Horfe, and marched towards Kandahar, by the Way of Carmania, and was shortly after followed by Thamas Khan Vakeel with about 40000 more.

What bappened after this, the Gentleman who favoured me with the above Memoirs is a Stranger to; excepting that on his Departure from Persia to India, which was in February, 1736-7, he heard Nadir Shah had besieged Kandahar. His Transattions fince that Time, I field continue as translated from some Persic Manuscripts, Manufcripts, which I have mentioned in the Preface.

The fame Gentleman has also favoured me avith a perfonal Description and Character of this great Heroe, which I shall referve for the Conclusion of these Sheets.

Nadir Shab, having fecurely eftablished himself, and settled his Affairs in Persia, he left his Son Reza Kuli Mirza to command there, and set out with his Army towards Kandabar. Hossian Kban, the Governor thereof, having laid up great Stores of Provisions and Ammunition, held out for 18 Months; at last, being reduced to Straits, he fallied out with his Men, most of whom died bravely fighting. Hossian Kban and his Son being taken Prisoners, the Persians entered the Castle, and took Possession thereof.

While Nadir Shab was bufy in fecuring and fortifying Kandabar, and bringing over to him the Zemidars of those Parts, Letters came from Nizam al Muluck and Saadit Khan, inviting him to march towards Hindostan, In Answer to which, he objected the Difficulties of getting thro' the Defiles, paffing the great Rivers, and the many Encounters he S must must expect to have with the Afghans, and the warlike Nations of those Parts, the Oppolition he must expect from Naçir Khan, Soubabdar of Cabul, and Zekaria Khan, Ruler of Labor; and, last of all (should his Fortune furmount all these) his Fate will depend on his Success against a powerful Imperial Army. They foon fatisfied him how unneceffary his Fears were, and that, before he crofs'd the Attok*, he should have a Proof how able they were, and how much inclined to facilitate his Paffage. Being encouraged by those Representations, he set out with an Army of 125,000 Horse, Kuzzlebash, Georgians, Turks, Khorasanis, Balkhis, &c. all inured to Fatigues and Hardships; they were well provided for this Expedition, and greatly encouraged thereto by the Hopes he gave them, of not only enriching themfelves, but bringing Wealth and Glory to their impoverifhed Country, by the Plunder of India, In the mean Time, Nizam al Muluck and Saadit Kban used all their Endeavours fecretly to promote his Interest, and wrote to Sberzib Khan +, Governor of the Castle of Cabul, and Naçir Khan, Soubabdar of that Province (who was a Creature of Khandoran's) as alfo to Zekaria Khan, Ruler of the Province of Labor, to this Purport : ' Nadir Shah, being thoroughly informed of the State of ⁴ Affairs in India, and that his Imperial Ma-' jefty and favourite Courtiers employ their * Time in Wine and Women, has come to * a Refolution to strike a Blow at this Em-' pire. the defired Effect with Naçir Khan and Zekaria Khan.

Nadir Shak, having fubdued Ghorbund and Ghoznavi, and garrifon'd them with his own People, came to Cabul and befieged it. Nacir Khan (before his Arrival) had left it, and marched to Peisbor; but Sherzih Khan defended both the City and Caftle for 6 Weeks with the utmost Bravery, and wrote repeatedly to Nacir Khan, and to Court for Affistance; but none coming, both City and Caftle were at last taken by Storm, and he and his Son were put to Death. Nadir Shab found Treasure, Jewels, Arms, &c. to a great Value, which, fince the Great Mogbol Babr's Time, had been shut up in Vaults. When the Taking of Cabul was known at Court, the Emperor gave Orders to get his Troops in Readinefs, and provide all Things neceffary for taking the Field. As Rajab Felling was more attached to Khandoran than to any of the other Omras, he repeatedly wrote to him to this Purport : ' Nadir Shab's * Coming is a concerted Thing. You must

Khandoran knowing him to be well-affected, represented this to the Emperor, and told him, it would be very imprudent in him to leave the Capital, and take the Field : However, it was at last agreed, that the Army should march to Labor, that the Emperor should accompany it so far, and that from thence it should proceed towards Cabul, under the Command of Nizam al Muluck, and the other two Omras; for which Purpose,

Before I begin with the Journal of Nadir Shah's Transactions, after his Arrival at Karnal, I shall trouble the Reader with Translations of some genuine Letters, which having been wrote before the Persian Army crossed the Attock, I thought this the properest Place for inserting them.

A Translation of a Letter from Nadir Shah to Mahummed Shah, received the Begining of Jumadi al avul 1 1 5 1, which is about the middle of August.

BE it clear to the enlightened Mind of your high Majefty, that my coming to Cabul, and poffeffing myfelf thereof, was purely out of Zeal for Iflam *, and Friendfhip for you. Nadir Shab, after he had given the Orders, returned back to the Caftle, about two o'Clock Mahommed Shah and Nizam al Muluck waited on him, who having made great Interceffion for the city, the foldiers were ordered to defift, and it was proclaimed by Beat of Drum, that none of the Inhabitants should be any longer molested.

The Slaughter continued from eight in the Morning till three in the Afternoon; above 400 Kuzzleba/b were killed, and of the Citizens (great and fmall) 120000 were flaughtered, others computed them 150000. What Treasure and Effects were plundered, fome Nadir Shab had, and a great deal was deftroyed by the Fire. In feveral of the Hindu Houfes, where one of a Family furvived, he used to pile thirty or forty Carcases a-top of one another, and burn them; and fo they did in the Streets, notwithstanding which

When the Slaughter began, those who raifed the Commotion disappeared in an Instant, and left the innocent Shopkeepers, Bazaris, and many honest Families, to be butchered by the enraged Kuzzlebash; feveral, jealous of their Honour, not only killed their Women, but laid alfo violent hands upon themfelves; one of these unfortunate Wretches in particular, when the Soldiers came near his Houfe, burnt about twenty Women of his Family, and was in Expectation of their entering every Minute and killing him; by Chance they miffed that House, but he was so infatuated, that, finding himfelf difappointed, he went out, and bringing fome of them back, fhewed them the Way to his own House, telling them there was a good deal of Money and Effects therein. After they had plundered his House, they went their Way without killing him, which fo enraged him, that he difpatched himfelf. There were great Numbers of People, efpecially Women and Children, burnt in their Houses.

On Monday the 12th *, the Prifoners, especially the Women +, according to Nadir Sbab's Orders, were all conducted back to their own Houses, but with Eyes full of Tears, and in Circumstances not to be described or uttered.

On Tuesday the 13th ‡, a Party, who had been formerly detached by Nadir Shab to feize the Cannon at the Serai of Roub Allab Khan, having been cut off by the People there, in Conjunction with those of Moghol Poura, who were chiefly Tartar Moghols, a ftrong Body was sent over thither, who flaughtered between 5 and 6000 of these People, and brought bound with them about 300 of those belonging to the Ordnance, also the Hazarris § and head Officers. Such a Sum was not to be raifed out of the King's Treasury; or the Omras Effects; for, in the King's, the Gold and Silver Coins did not exceed three Grore §: But, in the inward Vaults (which had been shut up and sealed for many Years, no Body knowing by whom they were fealed, or what they contained) there was found of Gold and Silver to a much larger Amount than the Money in the Treasury. Nizam al Muluck contributed a Pei/bcush of 1 + Crore || in Jewels, Treasure, and Goods, as did also Kummir o'din Khan to the fame Amount.

Saadit Khan had formerly agreed to pay one Crore * of Rupees, and made good thirty Lacks + thereof, which was all that had escaped being plundered; he promifed to fend for the Remainder from his Soubab.

Sirbulind Kban, on Account of his Poverty, was excused from any Share, and three Crore ‡ of Rupees were appointed to be levied on some Mansubdars, Muttefiddys, Officers, and the rich Inhabitants, each in Proportion to his Circumstances. Formerly Saddit Khan was ordered to collect this Money : After his Death, and the Slaughter and Plunder of the City, this Bufinels was recomrmended to the Care of Sirbullind Khan, and the other Omras, which Thamas Khan, at this Meeting, prefied them about : Accordingly it was now agreed, that Azim Allah Khan, Chuckl Keifbvir, Vakeel of the Soubabdar of Bengal, Seeta Ram, and all the Manfubdars and Officers of the Chaboutra, &cc. fhould meet at Sirbullind Khan's Houfe, and make an End of this Affair. All Officers, Inhabitants, &c. who were fuspected to be rich, were ordered to give in a Lift of what Money or Effects they were Mafters of, to be laid before the Sbab, that what he liked he might take, and what he forgave them they might keep; and whoever pleaded Poverty, fuch Person should declare the same by a Writing under his Hand and Seal, that in Cafe it should be afterwards proved, that he had given in a falle Account, he might be punished.

A Per-

A Perfonal Description and Character of Nadir Shah, which I had from the Gentleman who favoured me with the Account of his Exploits before his Expedition to India,

ADIR SHAH is about fifty-five Years, upwards of fix Foot high, well-proportion'd, of a very robust Make and Conftitution, his Complexion fanguine and inclining to be fat, but the Fatigue he undergoes prevents it; he has fine large Black-eyes and Eye-brows; and, in fhort, is one of the most comely Men I ever beheld. The Injury the Sun and Weather have done to his Complexion only gives him a more manly Afpect, His Voice is fo uncommonly loud and ftrong, that he frequently, and without ftraining it, gives Orders to his People at above a hundred Yards Distance, He drinks Wine with Moderation, but is extremely addicted to Women, in which he affects great Variety, and yet never neglects his Bufinefs on their Account; his Ģgą Hours

Hours of Retirement among the Ladies are but few, feldom entering their Apartments before Eleven or Twelve at Night, and is up and in Public by Five in the Morning. His Diet is fimple, chiefly Pillaw and plain Dishes; and, if public Affairs require his Attendance, he neglects his Meals, and fatisfies his Hunger with a few parched Peafe (of which he always carries fome in his Pockets) and a Draught of Water. In the Camp, or in the City, he is almost constantly in Public. and if not, he may be feat to, or spoke with by any Person. He musters, pays and cloaths his Army himfelf, and will not fuffer any Perquifites to be taken from the Soldiers by his Officers, on any Pretence whatever. He has Monthly Accounts tranfmitted to him of the State of Affairs in all Parts of his Dominions, and holds a Correfpondence with his feveral private Spies in every Place: Befides, in every Province and City there is a Perfon called Hum Calâm, appointed to infpect into the Governor's Actions, and keep a Register of them; no Affair of any Confequence can be transacted but in the Prefence of that Officer, who, befides the Account the Governor is obliged to fend Monthly, Monthly, transmits his Journal by a separate Conveyance whenever he thinks proper, without permitting the Governor to perufe it; he has no fettled Salary or Gratuity for his Trouble, but is rewarded or punished just as Nadir Shab finds he deferves. This extraordinary Caution in a great Measure prevents the Governor's oppreffing the People, or entering into any Confpiracies of Rebellions against him. He is extremely generous, particularly to his Soldiers, and bountifully rewards all in his Service, who behave well. He is, at the fame Time, very fevere and strict in his Discipline, punishing with Death those who commit a great Offence; and with the Lois of their Ears, those whole Transgreffions are of a flighter Nature ; he never pardons the Guilty of what Rank foever, and is highly difpleafed, if after he has throughly examined the Affair, any Perfon prefumes to intercede in their Behalf, before which they may give their Sentiments with Freedom.

When on a March, or in the Field, he contents himself to eat, drink, and sleep like a common Soldier, and enures all his Officers to the same severe Dicipline. He is of so hardy a Con-

a Conflictution, that he has been often known, of a frofty Night to repose himself upon the Ground in the open Air, wrapt up in his Cloak, with only a Saddle for his Pillow, especially when, upon an extraordinary Enterprize which required Expedition, he has been obliged to out-march his Baggage, by which Means he has fallen upon the Enemy when they least expected him. He is never happy but when in the Field, and laments the Time he is obliged to ftay in a City to refresh his Troops, in which (as in all Things else) he uses the utmost Dispatch. His Meals are over in lefs than Half an Hour, after which he returns to Bufinefs; fo that the Servants who attend him standing are changed three or four Times a Day. He never indulges himfelf in any Kind of Pleafure in the Day-time, but constantly at Sun-fet retires to a private Apartment; where, unbending himfelf at once from Business, he sups with three or four Favourites, and drinks a Quart, or at most three Pints of Wine, behaving all the Time in the freest and most facetious Man-In this private Conversation no Perfon ner. is allowed to mention any Thing relating to public Bufiness; nor, at other Times, must they they prefume, upon this Intimacy to behave with more Familiarity than their Equals. Two of his Evening-Companions happening to tranfgrefs in that Point, by taking the Liberty to advife him in Public, he immedately ordered them to be ftrangled, faying: ⁶ Such Fools were not fit to live, who could ⁶ not diftinguifh between Nadir Shab and ⁶ Nadir Kuli.' He has been very kind to those who please him in private Conversation, and behave with a becoming Decency and Deference in Public, where they are taken no more Notice of, nor have they any more Influence over him thanothersof the same Rank.

, His Mother, who was living in the Year 1737, (at the Request of some who were attached to the Royal Family) intreated Nadir Shab, some Time after he had seized the King, to restore him, not doubting but his Majesty would make him sufficient Amends, by creating him Generalissimo for Life. He ask'd her ' whether she really thought so?' She told him, ' She did.' Upon which he some finil'd and faid, ' If I was an old Woman, ' perhaps I might be inclined to think so too, ' and defired her to give herself no Trouble ' about State Affairs.'

He was married to Shab Themas's Aunt the youngest Sister of Shab Sultan Huffein. by whom, I heard, he had one Daughter: His has feveral young Children by his Concubines, and two Sons by a Woman he marries in his Obscurity. The Eldest, Rene Kuli Mirza, is about twenty-five Years of Age. He was trained up from his Childhood in the Army, where from a Subaltern he has been gradually advanced to the Rank of a General; and appointed Vice-Roy of Perfia, during his Father's Expedition to India. The fecond Son Nef-Allah Mirza, who is about twenty-one Years of Age, is nominal Governor of Mu/had and the Province of Khoralan, Having a Ferfon to direct and manage for him.

His eldeft Son, when he ranked as a Lieu-" tenant, had only that Pay to fublift on, and in all other Stations had no more than his Commission entitled him to. His Father regarded him no more than he did the other Officers, and permitted him to affociate with them, giving him to know, that if he was guilty of any Crime or Breach of Duty, he should be punished with as great Rigour as any of the reft. On his behaving well he not only promoted him, but increased his Paternal ternal Affection for him. They who knew the young Man (for I never faw him) judge he'll make full as great a Figure in the World as his Father; having given fignal Proofs of his Courage and Conduct in feveral Battles, and of his great Abilities in other Refpects while Nadir Shab was in India. By my private Advices from thence I'm inform'd, that he govern'd the Empire with great Skill, and kept every Thing quiet and eafy until his Father's Return.

Among Nadir Shab's extraordinary Faculties, his Memory is not the leaft to be admired, there being few Things of Moment that he ever faid or did, but what he remembers; and can readily call all the principal Officers in his numerous Army by their Names. He knows most of the private Men who have ferved under him any Time, and can recollect when and for what he punished and rewarded any of them. He dictates to one or two Secretaries, and gives Orders about other Affairs at the fame Time, with all the Regularity and Promptness imaginable.

In Time of Action, I'm told, he is equally furprifing, it being fearce credible how quick he is in difeerning the Odds on either Side, H h and 234 The HISTORY of and how active in fuccouring his Troops. If any of his General Officers give Ground without being greatly over-powered, he rides up and kills him with a Battle-ax (which he' always carries in his Hand) and then gives the Command to the next in Rank. In all the Battles, Skirmiss, and Sieges he has been engaged in (altho' he generally charges at the Head of his Troops) he never received the least Wound or Scar, and yet feveral Horfes have been shot under him, and Bullets have grazed on his Armour.

I could relate many other remarkable Things that I have feen and heard of this great Hero, whofe Actions already are fufficient to convince the World, that few Ages have, produced his Equal. As he has performed fuch Wonders when he had hardly Money or Men, what may we not expect from him now he is posses of fo immense a Treasure? This probable he may live thirty Years longer; and in that Space of Time, if his Designs are attended with the same Success he has hitherto met with, to what Pitch of Grandeur may not a Man of his unbounded Ambition and Courage arrive at?
